A bloody track was made in the road where the girl had been dragged. Farther on was a pile of brush where a tree had been cut down. Never before in the history of this Goverument, even under General Grant, has the Internal Revenue Bureau been so completely converted into a political machine. Commissioner Mason has practically suspended the regular duties of the Eureau, and nearly the entire force is engaged in active political work. Everything, probably, pertaining to the office is behindhand. The necessary preparations for the changes in the internal revenue laws to go into effect ader the new tariff law are all delayed, and persons seeking information as guides to their business are put off with promises to supply it later. Not less than thirteen officials and employes of the Revenue Bureau are scattered through the Second West Virginia district working against the re-election of Representative Wilson. The Republican candidate in that district was nominated by Mason through the manipulations of revenue employes, and now Mason is endeavoring to elect him by the same means. Twelve more internal revenue employes are scattered through other portions of West Virginia doing political work.

ulation has increased between 1880 and 1890 only 727.345 more than between 1870 and 1880, while the rate of increase has apparently diminished from 30.08 to 24.57 per cent. If these figures were derived from correct data they would be indeed disappointing. Such a reduction in the rate of increase, in the face of the enormous immigration during the past ten years, would argue a great diminution in the fecundity of the population or a corresponding increase in its death rate. These figures are, nowever, easily explained when the character of the data used is understood. It is well known, the fact having been demonstrated by extensive and thorough investigation, that the census of 1670 was grossly deficient in the Soutern States, so much so as not only to give an exaggerated rate of increase of the population between 1870 and 1880 in these States, but to affect very materially the rate of increase in the country at large.

These omissions were not the fault, nor were they within the control of the census of 1870, which was taken under a law which the superintendent, General Francis A. Walker, characterized as "clumsy, antiquated, and barbarous." The census of fice had no power over its enumerators save a barren protest, and this right was even cation of the existing feeling among men who have made politics a study for years. Few large bets have been made thus far, although election-day is only a few days distant, and in these, with the exception of one or two, the money wagered was on even terms.

The Rev. William H. Thomas, who lately surprised his congregation in the New England Congregational church, Brooklyn, by resigning his charge, is going to become an Episcopalian. He has admitted as much, but said that his retirement was really due to the fact that he would have to visit Europe friquently during the next year, in order to settle up an estate. He said he would finally settle down as rector of a Brooklyn church. It was lately learned from a reliable source that he expects to associate himself with the aged Dr. Haskins in St. Mark's church, on Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, and to eventually succeed the venerable Doctor.

The Tammany machine is humming these days. The regular work of preparation for election day goes merrily on, and meetings, and railies make things fively around townstration which was held at Tammany Hall to-night was all that the occasion promised to be, and was a rousing success. The immense hall was packed almost to suffocation, while outside thousands of people who were unable to get into the main hall listened to many able speakers, who disclosed to them many Democratic truths. Hon, Robert Roosevelt presided at the meeting inside the wigwam, while grouped around him were many notable Democrats. The principal speakers of the evening were Segators A. P.
